Yakima Valley Farm Workers Clinic Names New Clinic Manager

Angelina Willett named Clinic Manager at Children's Village

Yakima Valley Farm Workers Clinic is pleased to name Angelina Willett Clinic Manager at Children's Village in Yakima.

Willett started with Yakima Valley Farm Workers Clinic in the Sollus Northwest Administrative Fellowship program in 2015. After her fellowship, she has worked with Behavioral Health Services in an operations role, and clinic operations in Toppenish, Granger, and Wapato. Willett earned a Master of Health Administration from Pennsylvania State University and has a passion for working in the community health care setting.

"I decided to get into community health because when you expand access to quality health care, you not only benefit the individual, but the entire community," she said. "I wanted to work with a healthcare organization that provided every person who walked through our door an opportunity to have their healthcare needs respectfully addressed. That is what brought me to Yakima Valley Farm Workers Clinic."

Willett says she is looking forward to connecting with staff and the families we serve at Children's Village. Children's Village is a Partnership between Yakima Valley Farm Workers Clinic, Virginia Mason Memorial, and the Memorial Foundation with a focus on treating children with special health care needs.

In her free time, she enjoys hiking, traveling, civic engagement, and supporting other organizations working on strengthening communities.
