Rosewood Family Health Center Expands Portland Footprint

Local clinic adds Gateway location

PORTLAND – Amid a global pandemic, Rosewood Family Health Center opened a new site in the Gateway community of Portland earlier this year. Yakima Valley Farm Workers Clinic, which operates the Portland clinics, took over operation of Rose City Urgent Care, and opened the new site at 135 NE 102nd Avenue.

Rosewood Family Health at Gateway is our third location in Portland, Oregon committed to providing dependable, compassionate health care for the entire family.

“We are thrilled to be able to expand on the care we provide Portland,” Clinic Director Kate Pillar said.

Our family medicine team offers quality, comprehensive primary health care, immunizations, lab services, virtual visits, and interpreter services. Same-day appointments are available by calling the clinic. Most insurance plans are accepted. Medicaid and Medicare are also accepted.

To become a patient, community members can call (503) 894-9005.
